- 18. Given the current mission, major programs, and major operational objectives of the department/agency to which you have been nominated, what in your background or employment experience do you believe affirmatively qualifies you for appointment to the position for which you have been nominated, and why do you wish to serve in that position?

For the past 35 years I have served as a commissioned Coast Guard officer in a broad range of challenging operational and staff assignments, including external liaison positions at the Department of State and on Capitol Hill, and in a DoD Joint Service billet at U.S. SOUTHERN Command in Miami, Florida where I served for two years as the Director of Operations (J-3). In my current assignment as Atlantic Area Commander for the past 20 months, I've been privileged to oversee all Coast Guard operations east of the Rocky Mountains to the Arabian Gulf, and lead about two-thirds of all frontline Coast Guard operators. While at Atlantic Area, I have concurrently served as the Director of the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) Joint Task Force - East (JTF-E), tasked to enhance the coordination and synchronization of DHS cross-component operations and investigations within our vast and predominantly maritime joint operating area.

The Service has also provided me with enriching academic opportunities such as obtaining a Master's Degree in Public Administration, and completing a one year National Security Fellowship at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government. I believe the diversity of my aforementioned professional experiences, and a proven track record of performance within the Coast Guard, interagency, and the joint service environments, position me well for continued service as a senior Coast Guard leader. I have been nominated to serve as the 26th Commandant of the United States Coast Guard and I can think of no higher calling to serve the nation, the Department of Homeland Security, and the men and women that comprise the Service's active duty, Reserve, civilian and Auxiliary (volunteer) ranks. While humbled and honored beyond words by the President's nomination, I am confident in my readiness to serve in this demanding position and to best represent the interests of the nation, our Coast Guard, and the men women I will be entrusted to lead and have the privilege to serve alongside of.

19. What do you believe are your responsibilities, if confirmed, to ensure that the department/agency has proper management and accounting controls, and what experience do you have in managing a large organization?

As a career commissioned officer in our nation's Armed Services, and as a federal government employee, I hold myself and my organization wholly accountable for being responsible stewards of the public trust, including all fiscal resources, assets and equipment, and for the associated supervisory responsibility for my organization's subordinates. As a former Congressional Liaison to the House of Representatives, former Chief of Coast Guard Congressional and Governmental Affairs, and the flag officer Director of the Coast Guard's Governmental and Public Affairs programs, I am intimately familiar with the critical importance of a federal agency such as the Coast Guard strictly adhering to the highest standards of proper management, fiduciary responsibility, accounting controls and transparent behavior. I believe my record of responsibly leading organizations from the regional, through theater level, including within the Interagency and Joint domains, demonstrates a strong and steady commitment to proper management and accounting controls.

20. What do you believe to be the top three challenges facing the department/agency, and why?

In a department dedicated to the security of our Homeland, the interdependence of the legitimate flow of commerce and security is clear. As our partners in the Department of Defense address a multitude of national security challenges overseas, the Coast Guard must continue to combat the full spectrum of transnational crime in the Western Hemisphere, including the transshipment of illicit narcotics. The Coast Guard must continue to enhance our domestic and international partnerships, where possible, pushing out our borders and enabling mutual security opportunities. The Service must continue to enable economic prosperity by ensuring the security of the maritime transportation system (MTS) whereon 95% of our Nation's commerce occurs, facilitating $4.6 trillion in annual economic activity.

Protecting the homeland in an environment where trans-regional terrorist organizations and violent extremists are increasingly more prevalent will remain a daunting challenge for our nation's security forces, including the United States Coast Guard - the lead federal agency for maritime safety and security. Under that umbrella falls the large task of combatting transnational criminal organizations whose activities threaten the stability and legitimacy of partner nation governments in the Western Hemisphere, fuel extreme violence, and seed corruption. While the illicit and violent activities that transnational criminals engage in typically occur far from our homeland, the effects and impacts of those activities manifest themselves at our borders and in our American cities and neighborhoods. More than 50,000 Americans died of drug related causes last year alone, and tens of thousands of unaccompanied children are sent by their families on the long and arduous journey to escape the violence and lack of opportunity found in their Central American home towns and cities in the Northern Triangle where the homicide rates are up to 20 times that found in America. These transnational criminals exploit highly sophisticated smuggling networks to facilitate the movement of their illicit cargoes and activities from south to north, including drug and migrant smuggling, as well as the trafficking of persons. Along these same corridors or networks, bulk cash and weapons move in the reverse direction, completing the cycle of illicit activity. Protecting the homeland from the aforementioned threats, as well as from homegrown violent extremists, will remain a top priority mission and challenge for the Department of Homeland Security and the United States Coast Guard.

Secondly, the Coast Guard is on solid footing with stable requirements for recapitalizing our aging assets into a capable force to execute our broad portfolio of homeland security and other legacy missions. Predictable/stable funding, at the appropriate levels, is essential to maintaining momentum. Near term investments must be viewed as providing continuity for essential service delivery. Sustained momentum on this front will require open and honest dialogue, and likely hard choices - this is the nature of our government. A clear focus will be required to restore the service's declining readiness and significant lost buying power, the result of multiple years of funding at/or below Budget Control Act (BCA) caps for non-defense discretionary spending, by making timely and necessary investments in key assets, infrastructure, and our Coast Guard workforce. Additionally, the Coast Guard faces evolving and uncertain threats in the Cyber Space domain, as well as increasing levels of activity in an expanding Arctic region where the service has statutory responsibilities related to the safety, security and stewardship of those operating in the region and the environment itself. As the fifth Armed Service, the Coast Guard must strive to enjoin our readiness funding needs to the Administration's ongoing efforts to rebuild the nation's Armed Forces. It is paramount that the Coast Guard remain efficient and effective fiscal stewards of taxpayer monies and continue to annually earn a clean financial audit. The increasing costs we face servicing the interest on our $20 trillion federal debt, and the ongoing struggle as a nation to reach any kind of an agreement or shared definition regarding the appropriate size and nature of the services and programs our government should provide, pose a not too distant existential fiscal threat to operating agencies like the Coast Guard.

Thirdly, the Coast Guard will need to be mindful of managing its human capital, of remaining an "employer of choice" amidst a changing American workforce at a time when a new military retirement plan - the Blended Retirement System - was introduced at the start of this calendar year, and high tech competitive industries are seeking the same talent we need in our ranks. As a service, the Coast Guard will need to continue to demonstrate the value we place on our people, value that is measured in terms of trust, opportunity, professional growth and satisfaction. We need to draw the best talent possible from across America to fill our ranks - officer, enlisted and civilian. While our workforce is remarkably capable and productive, we have the opportunity and obligation for this workforce to be more representative of the citizens we serve, and the Coast Guard must continue to raise awareness of career opportunities in our service to underrepresented groups and inspire inclusiveness. Lastly, we need to provide our people with the training, educational benefits, health care and family support programs that make them want to stay attached to our brand.

OF

Vice Admiral Karl L. Schultz

Commander, Coast Guard Atlantic Area Commander, Coast Guard Defense Force East Director, DHS Joint Task Force - East

Vice Admiral Schultz assumed the duties of Commander, Coast Guard Atlantic Area on August 4, 2016. He serves as the operational commander for all Coast Guard missions from the Rocky Mountains to the Arabian Gulf, spanning across five Coast Guard Districts and 40 states. In addition to his duties at Atlantic Area, he serves as Commander, Coast Guard Defense Force East, which provides Coast Guard mission support to the Department of Defense and Combatant Commanders. He concurrently serves as Director, DHS Joint Task Force - East, responsible for achieving the objectives of the DHS Southern Border and Approaches Campaign Plan throughout his Joint Operating Area, which covers the Caribbean Ocean and Eastern Pacific Region and Central America.

Vice Admiral Schultz reports to the Atlantic Area having recently served as Director of Operations (J3), U.S. Southern Command in Doral, Florida, where he directed joint service military operations across the Caribbean Basin, Central and South America. Prior flag officer assignments were Commander, Eleventh Coast Guard District, where he was responsible for multi-mission operations from California to Peru, and Director of Governmental and Public Affairs at Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington, D.C., where he was responsible for external engagement with Congress, the media, and inter-governmental entities.

Previous operational assignments include Sector Command in Miami, as well as command tours aboard Cutters VENTUROUS, ACACIA and FARALLON. Staff assignments include Chief of the Office of Congressional and Governmental Affairs; Congressional Liaison Officer to the U.S. House of Representatives; Liaison Officer to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau for International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs; Assignment Officer at the Coast Guard Personnel Command, and Command Duty Officer in the Seventh Coast Guard District Operations Center in Miami.

Vice Admiral Schultz is a native of East Hartford, Connecticut and a 1983 Coast Guard Academy graduate, earning a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering. In 1992, he was awarded a Master's Degree in Public Administration from the University of Connecticut, and in 2006 completed a one year National Security Fellowship at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government.

His personal awards include the Defense Superior Service Medal, four Legions of Merit, four Meritorious Service Medals, three Coast Guard Commendation medals, two Coast Guard Achievement Medals, and various other personal and unit awards.
